BROADWAY'S CAVE-IN

Apparently No Bottom at the Corner of Tenth Street.

Big Subterranean Cavern Caused by a Defective Sewer.

Cable Road Conduit Barely Escaped Being Wrecked.

The bottom fell cut of Broadway a the northeast corner of Tenth street this orning, leaving a blg hole, 15 by 20 feet, and about 15 feet deep. The hole is water pipes, and extends far out under Thirty eartloads of dirt would be required to fill the cavity. The cave-in occurred at an early hour this morning, and fortunately when there was but little traffic at this point. It was caused by a defective sewer. The main sewer caved in, and, the waters rushing through it, gradually meked away the sand and deposited it

The pavement over Broadway and on

The pavement over Broadway and on Tenth street is of the new kind, laid over a body of cement. Tar is poured in the interstices between the granite blocks, making a surface exceedingly firm and compact.

The gradual sucking away of the sand has been going on for some time, and it is little short of a miracle that the thin shell of cement and granite blocks, should have held the heavy trucks that daily pass over that spot.

The cave-in was first noticed yesterday afternoon. A slagle granite block suddenly dropped out of sight, and a curious pedestrian who looked to see where it had gone hastily retreated when he saw the yawning space beneath him. A policeman was warned, and he in turn notified some workmen on the west side of Broadway, in Tenth street. They, however, paid no attention to it.

The next policeman who came on that post nearly walked into the cavity, and thus it was discovered.

Henry Sternfels Taken to Bloomingdale as Being Insane.

Appealed to a Lawyer to Rescue Him and Was Brought Back.

Henry Sternfels, a real estate dealer, who lived with his mother, Adeline, and his brother, Edwin, at 133 East Seventyfourth street, was taken from the Bloomingdale Insane Asylum to Supreme Court Chambers to-day on a writ of habeas corpus, issued by Justice Ingraham vesterday.

The case contains many mysterious features, and before it is settled many persons may be called upon by Justice ngraham to explain their connection Sternfels was summoned last week to eport Monday as a juror in the Court of General Sessions.

When he reported Monday morning he answered the several questions sat-isfactorily, and was impanelled as a juror. His name did not happen to be called to try a case until Wednesday morning, when he was accepted by the awyers on both sides, and served.

lawyers on both sides, and served.

The case was that of Nicholas Graffe, charged with grand larceny.

When all the evidence was in, Judge Cowing directed the jury to bring in a verilet of acquittal.

Sternfels, it is said, during the recess of court Thursday went to the Asior House for his luncheon.

While he was in the cafe he was arrested upon an order signed by Justice Ehrlich, of the City Court, committing him to the Bioomingdale Asylum as an insane person.

Justice Ehrlich signed the order of commitment upon the certificate of Dra. Nathan Brill, of 805 Lexington avenue, and Bernard Sachs, of 21 East Sixty-fifth street.

and Sternfels was taken back to asylum.

Dr. Nathan Brill, when seen by an "Evening World" reporter this afternoon, said that three weeks ago the brother, Edwin, came to him and asked a hypothetical question as to insanity matters. Dr. Brill refused to answer Edwin's question until he examined Henry.

Henry refused to go to the doctors before.

Edwin then told the doctor that his brother had been insane for a long time; had thrown plates at servants and made extravagant demands for money.

Dr. Brill went to Sternfel's office and found Henry afflicted with a form of violent insanity. He thought it had existed a number of years, and recommended the man's removal to an asylum.

Dr. Bernard Sachs, of 21 East Sixty-fith street, who coincided with Brill in this belief, signed the commitment paper with him.
